ESTIMATES OF PERSONS INCOME ELIGIBLE FOR WIC IN 1989

CONTENT

The following estimates were developed by Sigma One Corporation under contract to the Food and Nutrition Service (FNS) using data from a special extract of the long form sample of the 1990 Decennial Census of Housing and Population. The estimates fulfill P.L. 101-147's mandate to use the 1990 Census to produce State- and county-level estimates of women, infants and children who are members of families with incomes below the WIC income eligibility limit.

Because the 1990 Census collected information on 1989 annual incomes, these estimates are for calendar year 1989. Estimates for all 50 States, the District of Columbia, Puerto Rico, the Virgin Islands and Guam are included. The estimates of pregnant, postpartum breastfeeding and postpartum non-breastfeeding women, infants (under 1 year of age) and children (1-4 years) at or below 185 percent of poverty represent the average monthly number of persons income eligible for the WIC Program. Estimates are also provided for the number of women, infants and children at or below 75 percent, 100 percent and 130 percent of poverty. Additionally, a count of the total population at all incomes in each category is included for reference. Poverty income status is based on reported annual family income from the Census and Federal poverty income guidelines in effect in 1989.

The estimates do not include persons with incomes above 185 percent of poverty who may be eligible for WIC under the Medicaid adjunct eligibility provisions. In addition, the estimates are not adjusted for nutritional risk and therefore include persons who are not fully eligible to participate in WIC.

State-level estimates are broken down by race/ethnicity, poverty level and age. County-level estimates include racial/ethnic detail for the at or below 185 percent of poverty level. Census counts of all persons and women 15-44 are provided as points of reference for comparison with persons with incomes below WIC Program guidelines.

METHODOLOGY

The estimates are based on census counts of infants (under 1 year of age) and children (1-4 years). The Census does not identify pregnant, postpartum breastfeeding and postpartum non-breastfeeding women, so these categories are estimated by a methodology that uses vital statistics and survey data in addition to the Census data.

Pregnant Women

The estimates of the average monthly number of pregnant women at any stage of gestation were calculated by estimating the number of women pregnant for any portion of 1989 adjusted for the portion of 1989 they were pregnant. Census counts used include women with their own infants and infants not with their own mothers. The census counts were adjusted to account for multiple births and fetal and infant deaths.

Postpartum Breastfeeding and Non-Breastfeeding Women

The estimates of postpartum breastfeeding and postpartum non-breastfeeding women were also derived from counts of women with their own infants and infants not with their own mothers adjusted for multiple births and fetal and infant deaths. Estimates of breastfeeding duration by maternal age and income level were developed using data from the 1988 National Maternal and Infant Health Survey.

Infants and Children

The estimates of infants under one year of age and children 1 through 4 years of age were based on direct counts from the Census data. It should be noted that these estimates differ from other published Census data because they: 1) use Federal poverty income guidelines rather than Census poverty thresholds; 2) use an adjusted count of infants developed by the Census to correct for the misclassification of infants less than one year of age; and, 3) include some infants and children, such as those in foster care, roomers, boarders and in group quarters, without income information that are not included in the Census poverty universe.

LIMITATIONS

Because these estimates of income eligible persons have not been adjusted to include Medicaid adjunct eligibles or to exclude those persons not at nutritional risk and thus not fully eligible for WIC, they cannot be used directly for calculating WIC coverage rates. Because these estimates are for 1989, they do not capture any change in the number of persons at or below 185 percent of poverty that has occurred since 1989. Finally, the estimates cannot account for differences between actual WIC program income determinations and estimating income eligibility with Census data. The methodology used cannot duplicate the income determination process that takes place in the WIC clinic on a case by case basis.

FUTURE WORK

Work is underway to update procedures for estimating the proportion of WIC income eligible persons likely to be at nutritional risk and thus fully eligible for the WIC Program. The nutritional risk analysis will use survey data from the 1988 National Maternal and Infant Health Survey and the Third National Health and Nutrition Examination Survey. The estimate will also include the effect of Medicaid adjunct eligibility regulations on the number of persons income eligible for WIC. FNS will issue a final report which will explain the methodologies used to derive all estimates.

FNS will also continue to produce annual national estimates of eligible persons. The annual estimates of eligible persons will continue to be based on annual March Current Population Survey data and information from the 1990 Census-based estimates and other appropriate data bases.

SUMMARY

The detailed State- and county-level estimates have been developed to meet the P.L. 101-147 requirement and to be useful to State and local WIC agency administrators and planners, researchers, and others interested in WIC program operations at State and local levels. These Census-based estimates for 1989 were developed using a consistent and comprehensive methodology and provide a level of State and county detail that is not possible from any other data source. The tables that follow present FNS' best estimates of the average monthly number of women, infants and children income eligible for the WIC Program due to family incomes less than or equal to 185 percent of poverty in 1989.

Organization of the Tables

The first table in this volume, titled "Summary" provides an overview of the State level estimates of the average monthly number of WIC income eligible women, infants and children in 1989. Detailed national and State tables follow the summary table led by two sets of National total tables. One is for the United States (including 50 States and the District of Columbia) without the outlying areas and the other is the United States plus Puerto Rico, the Virgin Islands and Guam. After the national tables, the tables are grouped by State. Tables for the 50 States and the District of Columbia are presented in alphabetical order with tables for Puerto Rico, the Virgin Islands and Guam at the end. Tables identified below as Tables 1 through 6 are provided for each geographic area.

NOTES

The estimated WIC income eligible population in 1989 is based on 1989 annual incomes from the 1990 Census of Population and Housing. The estimates of women, infants and children at 185 percent of poverty and below represent the average monthly number of persons income eligible for WIC during 1989.

Because these estimates are not adjusted for nutritional risk, they include persons who may not be fully eligible for the WIC Program. These estimates do not include persons above 185 percent of poverty who are adjunctly eligible for WIC due to participation in the Medicaid Program.

United States totals include the 50 States and the District of Columbia. Estimates are also provided for the outlying areas of Puerto Rico, the Virgin Islands and Guam and totals are provided for the United States plus these areas where noted.

The WIC category of "infants" includes babies under the age of 1 year and the category of "children" includes children 1 through 4 years of age.

Poverty income levels are based on DHHS/OMB poverty guidelines in effect during calendar year 1989. The 185 percent of poverty level is identified as "WIC Income Eligible" since 185 percent of the Federal poverty income guidelines is the maximum statutory limit for WIC income eligibility. In 1989, six States used lower limits for all or part of their WIC populations: California 135-185 percent; Arizona 100-185 percent; Indiana 100-185 percent; North Carolina 110-185 percent; South Dakota 175 percent; and, Virginia 167 percent.

The population categories by race and Hispanic ethnic origin are nonoverlapping and additive. "Other, Non Hispanic" includes persons not separately classified. In the 1979 WIC eligibles estimates, persons not separately classified were included in "All Groups". The definitions described in OMB Directive 15, "Race and Ethnic Standards for Federal Statistics and Reporting" (FR 42, No. 87, May 4, 1978).

There are no infants in the "Other, Non-Hispanic" category because all infants were assigned to specific classifications as part of the Bureau of the Census' modification of the infant counts.

Persons in Puerto Rico, the Virgin Islands and Guam were not classified by race/ethnicity in the Census. In the summary table, "United States and Puerto Rico, the Virgin Islands and Guam", persons in these areas are added to the United States totals in the "All Groups" racial/ethnic classification. Therefore, adding the totals for each racial/ethnic group will not equal the "All Group" count in this table.

National totals are a summary of State estimates. Estimates at the county level may not sum to State totals due to rounding and the suppression of small numbers for Census confidentiality.
